Hate-Less empowers youth and youth workers to combat hate speech and disinformation through media literacy and participatory learning. The project combines focus groups, trainings, and creative video production to promote critical thinking and inclusion. By developing practical toolkits and running advocacy campaigns, Hate-Less strengthens digital skills, encourages intercultural dialogue, and inspires young people to build a more tolerant and inclusive Europe.

AIM OF THE PROJECT

To combat hate speech and disinformation by empowering young people and youth workers with media literacy skills, critical thinking, and tools for inclusive dialogue.

OBJECTIVES

- Counter hate speech and disinformation through media literacy and critical awareness.
- Empower youth workers and young people to analyse and respond to online hate and fake news.
- Promote inclusive societies by using participatory and digital methods in youth work.
- Strengthen civic and social competences based on mutual respect, intercultural dialogue, and European values.

EXPECTED OUTCOMES

- Greater understanding of how media literacy and participatory approaches can address hate and disinformation.
- Enhanced competences of youth workers and young people through training and participatory video production.
- Positive shift in public perception and engagement with media literacy.
- A strong advocacy campaign and youth manifesto promoting tolerance, diversity, and inclusion.
